Secondary Advisor Declaration Form

All Cognitive Science graduate students must select a secondary advisor by the end of their first year. Their secondary advisor must be in a different department and/or in a different sub-discipline of Cognitive Science from that of the student’s primary advisor.

The duties of a Secondary Advisor include:

- Reading and providing feedback on the student’s interdisciplinary paper. This is a paper that is interdisciplinary in nature, that is, covering more than one discipline of Cognitive Science. This paper does not have to be submitted for publication (although this is encouraged). It can be written as part of a course.
- Providing mentorship and guidance throughout the student’s time in the program
- Acting as a member of the student’s dissertation committee (usually).

Directions:
This form must be completed by the student and their secondary advisor, and should be submitted to the Project Administrator of the Cognitive Science Graduate Program, Teresa.Salvato@tufts.edu.

Student Information:

Name: ___________________________ E-Mail: ___________________________
Department: _____________________ Primary Advisor: ____________________
Expected Graduation Date: __________

Secondary Advisor Information:

Name: ___________________________ E-Mail: ___________________________
Department: _____________________ Title: _____________________________
Signature: ________________________ Date: _____________________________